Souvenirs

They are both young and inexperienced, but in this case it may be an advantage. Design students from the Holon Institute of Technology have an exhibition opening this week in Lodz, Poland. The show, "Holyland Souvenirs," is both a loving and critical look at Israeli life. The "souvenirs" were designed during an academic course under the guidance of designer Naama Steinbock. The students were asked to create an innovative souvenir based on an aspect of Israeli life.

Safety Israel, by Kobi Peretz – the safety pin becomes a brooch in the shape of Israel.

Road Runner, by Shay Goldberg – a decoration for the battle against road rage.

MOREorLESS Clock by Moti Barzilay – the minute hand displays a wider range of time.

The Golden Globe by Ellia Nattel. Orange and cardboard Dome of the Rock

My home, by Noam Bar Yochai – a nail with which one marks his/her favorite location and declares it 'home.'

The Sabra, by Ayala Bugay, made out of used IDF uniforms.
